

Editor's Comment

This issue marks an important point in the growth and development of the MIS Quarterly. Fixed terms for all editorial appointments were instituted when I became Senior Editor, and the new editors who join us with this issue mark the nearly complete turnover of the Editorial Board in that three-year period.

I am pleased to welcome as new Associate Editors:

John Bennett (IBM)
Mary Culnan (University of California at Berkeley)
Warren McFarlan (Harvard University)
Dennis Slevin (University of Pittsburgh)
Ananth Srinivasan (Indiana University)
James Stuber (Mellon Bank)

I also wish to announce that the position of Consulting Editor has been discontinued. After careful analysis, the Editorial Board, Editorial Advisory Committee, and I concluded that the lengthening of the review process that was created as a result of this function was not worth the benefits being derived from the initial "filtering" review that the Consulting Editors provided.

I am pleased that one Consulting Editor whose term is continuing, Dan Robey, has agreed to complete his term in the position of Associate Editor.
